

Manuscript-Style Thesis

What is a "manuscript-style thesis"?

A manuscript-style thesis is a scholarly manuscript written in a manner suitable for publication in appropriate venues. A manuscript-style thesis allows a student to prepare and present his or her graduate research work in a format that facilitates publication.

I hereby declare that I have understood and do accept the special guidelines and policies made on manuscript-style theses by the TUM Chair of Psychology in consultation and agreement with the responsible supervisor. With my signature, I further confirm that I will not sue my supervisor due to the special characteristics of a manuscript-style thesis (e.g., reduced length, journal specific guidelines, publication-oriented assessment).
